

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When reception of an E-mail or browser data on a Web site from a network has been completed, a controller informs the user of the completion of the data reception by turning on the backlight of a display section or sounding a sounding device, on the basis of information set in an informing-operation-setup-table storage area, more specifically, on the basis of the ambient brightness detected by a sensor or a present time point detected by a timer.

05964465-092801